Halloween Costumes

The Ghosts of Halloween Past

When I was a kid I couldn't wait to go the local "5 and 10" to look at the new Halloween costumes in the box, hoping my Mom would get me one. Do you remember they had plastic masks with little rubber bands that inevitably broke, and scrappy outfits that barely fit the part? Well, I never actually wore those costumes - as much as I may have wanted to. My mother sewed my costumes. Looking back I must say I was very lucky! This year I decided to try and sew my daughter's fairy costume -- it's now at my mother's house! I obviously didn't inherit all her talents! Skip forward 25 years and you can see what Halloween Costumes are really all about!

Halloween Present

Here are some fabulous costumes sent to me to have reviewed. The policeman, tested by a 5-year-old up the street has been worn non-stop since I gave it to him almost two weeks ago. He decided that Halloween is everyday for him. So now he gets to pretend to be a cop! His mother was thrilled he got to test this costume, first, because hands down it was the nicest costume she had ever seen and secondly because it got him out of his cowboy boots and sheriffs hat that he had been wearing since last year!

Here is a glimpse at some of these great costumes:

Some of my other testers have commented that they are so real -- it's cool! The chef's outfit tester has been told that she can't wear it to cook in until after Halloween - although she insists that food on it will make it appear more authentic! The firefighter has been having a blast since it's been Fire Safety Prevention month, and the Racing Car driver - well he's a NASCAR fan - so need I say more!
