

Women's Financial Network Online

February 10, 2004

Aeromax Toys/Enchanted Moments, Booth 1663

Aeromax is trying to take kids to the Moon and even to Mars with some imagination and their Jr. Astronaut Suit. The orange suit features zippered pockets and straps with buckles for the make-believe adventure of harnessing oneself to the spacecraft for when zero gravity kicks in. Knee and elbow patches and embroidery complete the realistic look and durability of the costume that also features a custom-embroidered cap with NASA logo. Coming this summer is a domed space helmet with a button to mechanically lower and raise the faceplate. Press another button and young astronauts will hear Houston count down to blast off, then the realistic sounds of a rocket taking off. Also straight from outer space is another Get Real Gear introduction: The Jr. Air Force Pilot suit with realistic helmet and shield.